

LITIGATION

Arts

Saddlebags Full Of Support And Help For Children

Video Technology Allows Wyoming Lawyer to Sit Tall In The Saddle

This is the story of a small town lawyer who made it big...lots of giant verdicts and seven figure settlements. Success, happiness and victory let Jim Fitzgerald of Cheyenne, Wyoming sit tall in the saddle today. But what really makes his heart feel good is his commitment, dedication and generosity to underprivileged children in his state.

Practicing law since 1975, Jim built his practice from scratch to become one of the most respected lawyers in the West and a member of the Inner circle of Advocates. Jim notes one of the reasons for his success to his use of computers and video technology in the preparation and trial of his cases. "Seeing is believing - believing is the key step in persuasion." The outcome of his successful law practice has enabled Jim to set up a foundation for helping children, so he and his wife Sharon, also a full-time practicing attorney in the firm, could give back to their state. Formed in early 1998, and called The Fitzgerald Foundation For Children, it has already provided help and assistance to children and their families. This spring, the Foundation sponsored a Closing Argument Competition with cash prizes for law students who made the best arguments on behalf of damaged children. This summer, they are identifying school districts to receive funds the Foundation will contribute so the schools can provide school supplies for underprivileged students. Jim and Sharon's goal is to provide to old for learning. As they say, "Give me a fish and you'll feed me today. Teach me to fish and you'll feed me forever."

With offices in Cheyenne and Laramie, The Fitzgerald Law Firm's logistics are based on a Macintosh platform with Internet, e-mail, graphics and scanning capabilities. On-line access to such services as Westlaw(tm); Medline(tm) and others are also utilized. In 1994, Don Keenan of Atlanta, Georgia, President of the Inner Circle of Advocates and an Omni customer introduced Jim to Omni Video and their services which Don had been doing business with for over 12 years. Jim gave three cases to Omni to work up. Within four months, the videos were produced, shown to the carriers and all were settled to sealed and satisfactory results! Jim like many of Omni's clients discovered how video technology could be a crucial and powerful weapon in fighting big defendants. "Technology and video greatly increase the results for our clients."

Jim, Sharon and family enjoying the beautiful western skyline

Due to their successes, Jim and Sharon Fitzgerald are providing children the help, protection and support they so vitally need to grow up in a safe and happy environment and be the best they can be.

Omni Video

For more information on the services we provide at Omni Video give us a call!

(904) 396-7744
(404) 659-3060
(800) 888-5879